Monday, December 8. 1707.

Stockholm, Nov. 9.

THE 3d Instant being the Birthday of the Queen Grandmother, on which she enter'd into the 72d Year of her Age, was celebrated at Court with great Magnificence. There is great Talk here, occasion'd by Advices from divers Parts, that a Peace will soon be concluded between our King and the Czar of Muscovy: The Reasons upon which Men incline to believe this, are, first, the large Offers which the Czar is said to have made of Satisfaction and Reparation to Sweden; in the next Place the great Difficulty which 'tis foreseen the Swedish Army would meet with to get Subsistence in so long a March as to Moscow, whither 'tis thought the Muscovites would retire if press'd, and that in their Retreat they would burn and destroy whatever could be of Use to the Swedes: And lastly, the Delay of the Imperialists to execute the Treaty relating to Silesia; which if continued, will give his Swedish Majesty an Occasion (according to an Article of his Instrument of the Treaty,) to march his Army back into that Country; where he will have excellent Quarters, and may from thence with great Facility influence the Poles to settle his King Stanislaus firmly on the Throne. A Scotch Captain nam'd Ramsey, who was the only Prisoner among the Muscovites that had our King's Leave to wear his Sword, and walk about this City without any Guard, on his Parole, has made his Escape from hence by Sea to Germany, in the Company of a Saxon Captain, who having obtain'd a Passport for himself and a Swedish Servant, left that Servant behind; and took Captain Ramsey with him under his Name. M. Campredon, who was formerly Page to M. de Bonrepos, and had resided here 6 Years in Quality of Secretary to M. de Bonacq, has for about 3 Months past acted as Resident of the King of France, by Virtue of the following credential Letter to our King from his most Christian Majesty.

MOST high, most Excellent; and most potent Prince, our most dear and most beloved good Brother, Cousin, Ally, and Confederate. The Care we have always had to maintain a perfect Union and good Correspondence between our Kingdom and the Crown of Sweden, induces us to confer on M. Campredon the Quality of our Resident at Stockholm, to execute our Orders there, in the Absence of the Baron de Boffenwald our Envoy extraordinary with your Majesty: And as we make no Doubt he will find from your Majesty and from your Ministry in intire Credit for what he shall offer in Execution of our Orders, so we will make good the Assurances he shall at all Times give in our Name of the Concern we have for your Glory, and of our sincere Friendship for your Majesty, &c. Marly, July 14. 1707.

L O U I S.
M. Rumpf, Resident here of the States general of the United Provinces of the Netherlands, presented a few Days ago the following Memorial to the Royal Court of Chancery.

Pro Memoria.

WHEREAS in all Places, and particularly in this Royal Court, 'tis the establish'd Custom, not only to allow publick Ministers themselves (who are under the most sacred Protection) to enjoy the Honour, Rights, and Privileges, acknowledg'd by the Laws of all Nations to be due to their Character; but likewise to suffer all Persons and Effects belonging to them to enjoy the same Protection and Immunities; the underwritten Resident of the High and Mighty Lords the States General of the United Netherlands, has thought fit to lay before the Royal Court of Chancery the subjoyn'd Relation of Fact; by which it will appear that he has great Cause to complain as well of Contempt put upon the Office and Character he bears, as of Injuries offer'd him yesterday, by Michael Grab Draper, and more particularly by his Servants, in the Person of his Brother whom he employs as his Secretary. Desiring respectfully and earnestly, that the Royal Court of Chancery will with their usual Justice and Equity severely punish the Delinquents, and take due Cognizance of this Cause, such as the Affair in its own Nature requires, and is consonant to the Friendship that is betwixt his sacred Royal Majesty of Sweden and the high and mighty Lords the States General of the united Netherlands. Stockholm, Oct. 29. 1707.

Sign'd,

H. W. Rumpf.

Facti Species.

In the Month of August 1706, Jacob Blum Sadler bought of Michael Grab Draper in this City 12 Ells of black Cloth, to cover the Mourning Coach of the Resident M. Rumpf, who paid the Money for it to the said Sadler, by the Agreement and Consent of the said Grab, as the Sadler and the Resident's Footman can testify. It happen'd afterwards, that Grab and Blum falling out about the Price of the said Cloth, the former demanded Payment of the Resident, tho' the Cloth was book'd to Blum, as appears by the Draper's own Bill hereto annex'd. M. Rumpf telling the said Draper in a very civil Manner, that he must apply himself to the Sadler who was the Buyer of the Cloth, his Journeyman took upon him to make a Reply in very rude insolent and threatening Terms; which however (coming from a simple Fellow) was no otherwise resent'd than by shewing him the Door, and bidding him for the future forbear throwing out such Impertinencies in the Resident's House, or he should be taught better Language: Some Days after, the Resident's Brother passing by Grab's Shop, the same Journeyman step'd to him in the Street, and with great Clamour reproaching him that the Cloth for the Resident's Coach was not paid for, told him he meant to stay no longer for Payment, but knew how to compel him to it: The Resident's Brother to avoid a further Affront went into Grab's Shop, where the said Journeyman treated him with very scurrilous Words and Threats; upon which he offer'd to be gone, but the Journeyman assisted by another Servant belonging to the Shop took him by the Collar, struck off his Periwig, wounded wounded him in the Hand, and he had much ado to get from them without further Mischief.
